

The Good Food Dunedin Charter

Good food is vital to the quality of our lives. We believe that the food we eat should be good for people, good for the city, and good for the planet. This Good Food Dunedin Charter is designed to bring communities and organisations together to create a thriving, food-resilient city.

The principles of Good Food

Good for people

We will actively find ways to support positive health and social outcomes by ensuring all residents have easy access to nutritious food.

Good for the city

We will be part of a food-friendly economy that actively seeks and supports opportunities for growers, producers, consumers, businesses, and entrepreneurs.

Good for the planet

We will actively support the environment through the development of a sustainable local food system that protects and benefits natural resources and ecosystems.

This charter sets out a vision to guide our collective actions. As signatories to this charter, we commit to working collaboratively to make this vision a reality.
